WHY YOU SLIPPED

- [HIGH CONFIDENCE] Leslie Romenesko Luxury Real Estate at Compass gained 8 reviews over the full measurement period (now at 15 total, rated 5.0 stars) and now holds rank #3. Your 63-review inventory, while 2.6x larger, is being outpaced by review momentum from a competitor with significantly fewer total reviews.
- [MEDIUM CONFIDENCE] Seven competitors in your category currently hold higher ratings than your 4.9 stars. While your 4.9-star average exceeds the market average of 4.4, the density of 5.0-star competitors in the top 10 creates rating-based differentiation pressure.

DO THIS NEXT

1. Implement a structured review request process targeting recent closed transactions in Brentwood, Santa Monica, and Los Angeles markets. Why now: You hold 63 reviews (70th percentile) against a category average of 24, but your zero review velocity over 15.9 weeks means competitors are closing the gap through consistent activity. A single week of 2-3 reviews would break the stagnation signal. Effort: Low. Expected impact: Medium.
2. Audit recent client engagement for any service gaps or communication delays that may be suppressing organic reviews. Why now: The 6-position drop correlates with complete review stagnation, suggesting possible friction in the client experience or a shift in your transaction close volume. Effort: Low. Expected impact: Medium.
