WHAT HAPPENED

Bridge City Law dropped from rank #7 to rank #20 on October 15, 2026, a 13-position decline. Over the full 14-week measurement period, your rank has been volatile, reaching as high as #5 and as low as #20, with the current position representing the worst performance in that span. During the 8-week scan window, you gained 13 reviews while competitors above you -- Dawson Law Group, Tillmann Law, and Rosenbaum Law Group -- each gained 1 to 2 reviews in the same timeframe.

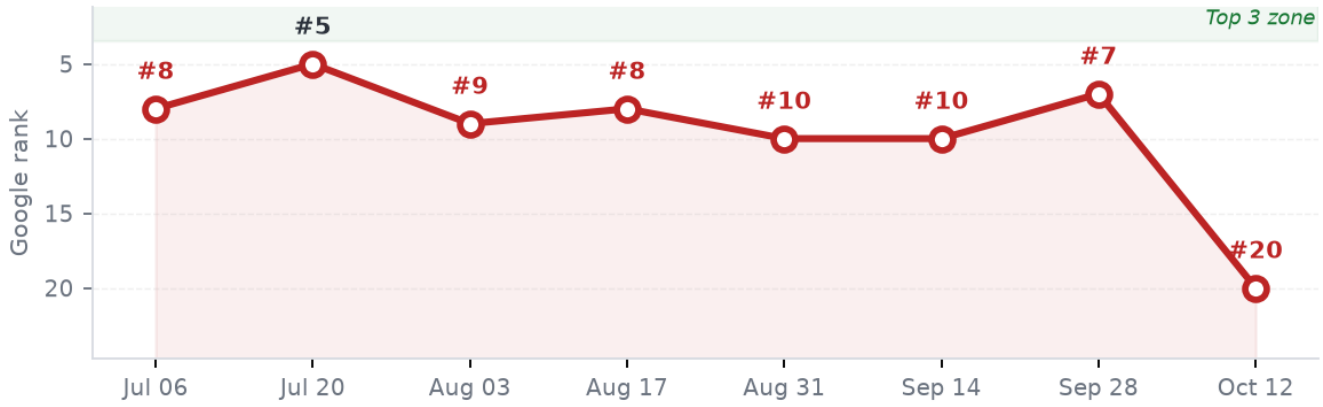

WHY YOU SLIPPED

- [HIGH CONFIDENCE] Michael A. Colbach, Attorney At Law, PC climbed 10 positions to land at #7 while gaining only 1 review, suggesting rank movement is not driven by review volume alone. This competitor now ranks above you despite holding fewer total reviews and a lower rating (4.7 stars vs. your 4.9 stars).
- [MEDIUM CONFIDENCE] Your review velocity of 1.21 per week over 14 weeks trails the fastest-climbing competitor. While your 268 total reviews place you in the 85th percentile for the category, competitors like Morgan & Morgan have demonstrated capacity to gain 78 reviews in a single period, now holding 613 total reviews at rank #16.
- [MEDIUM CONFIDENCE] Multi-week rank trend shows consistent volatility with no clear improvement pattern. Positions over the past 8 scans read #8, #5, #9, #8, #10, #10, #7, #20. This suggests your ranking is not stabilizing around a higher position, and the current drop to #20 follows prior weeks at #7 and #10.

YOUR STANDING

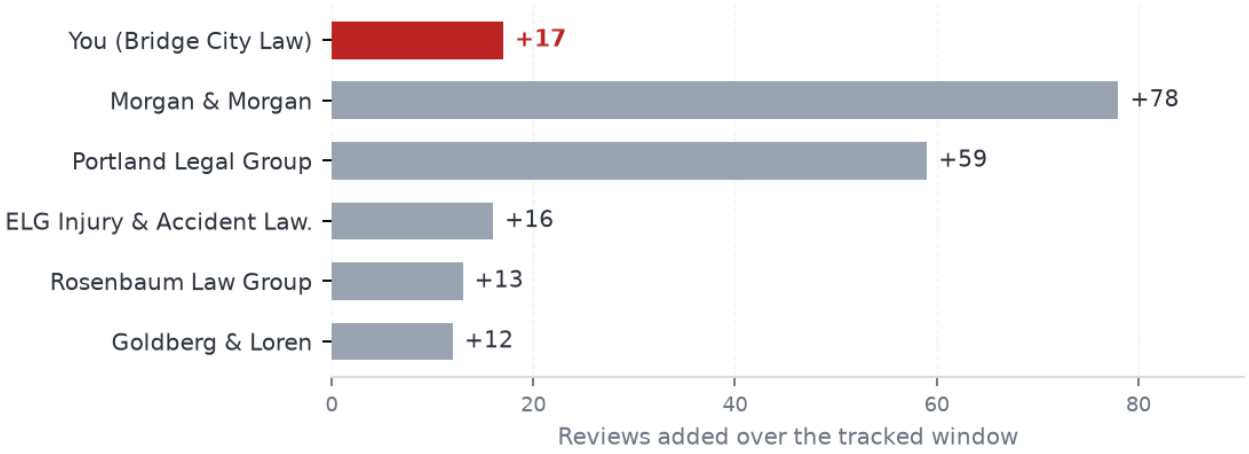

Your confidence score is 10/10, meaning this data is complete and the rank drop is measured reliably. However, your 14-week trend shows volatility -- you have hit #5 before. The current #20 position warrants action, but your standing as 85th percentile by review volume and 4.9-star rating indicates you retain competitive strengths in the category.

DO THIS NEXT

1. Accelerate review generation through post-case follow-up campaigns targeting recent clients. Why now: Your review velocity of 1.21 per week is moderate; competitors are outpacing you on review accumulation, and your 268 reviews, while above category average, rank you 85th percentile -- not top tier. Effort: Medium. Expected impact: Medium.
2. Audit your Google Business Profile completeness and consistency (service areas, practice areas, contact response time). Why now: A competitor with fewer reviews and lower rating jumped 10 positions, indicating factors beyond review count influence ranking. Effort: Low. Expected impact: Medium.
